Ranbir and Alia took up the initiative to improve Mumbai's schools

Published: 19 Sep 2026

On Thursday, Ranveer Singh visited Mumbai's famous Lalbaghcha Raja pandal to seek the blessings of Lord Ganesha. Ranveer won everyone's hearts when he revealed that as part of the festival, he has vowed to educate 1,000 girls. Meanwhile, actors Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor also made a pledge to do something for society. They mentioned helping improve 20 schools in Mumbai as part of this effort.

On Ganesh Chaturthi, Ranveer Singh said, 'I pledge to join the Seva Sankalp campaign and help in the education of 1,000 girls. I hope this will please Bappa and his blessings will always be with us.' According to reports, Ranveer is among the film stars participating in this initiative. Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor also promised to help refurbish 20 schools in Mumbai. On Prime Minister Modi's birthday, Alia Bhatt celebrated the occasion on social media with a message and also announced this new initiative along with Ranbir Kapoor.

Wishing PM Modi a happy birthday, Alia wrote, 'Happy birthday to our honorable Prime Minister Narendra Modi! May the coming year be healthy and full of happiness for you.' She further said, 'To celebrate this day and contribute to this noble cause, Ranbir and I are committing to improving 20 schools according to BMC's recommendations, so that better and well-equipped places can be created for our children to learn and progress.'
